days to hear such expressions as these "If women were allowed to vote, the saloons would be speedlly closed, child many other evits affecting the good and the happiness of humanity would be remediced." Well, American women vote in Denver, Colorado, and, if they were united in their vote they could certainly be reformers. Women elsewhere in the United States are looking at the Colorado sisterhood and wondering as to the outcome of their political career. A Denver politician and a man who professes to write from an inside knowledge, has recently published an article in which he declares that the fashionable women of Denver look upon voting as a social diversion and treat it accordingly. On the otherhand, bundreds of mothers, wives and daughters of high-salaried menfolk, or owners of small business concerns, go with these men to the polis and vote quietly, without having a very clear or definite idea of political issues. Agdin other women exercise that videa, and they do not care to vote again. Apmog Denver women, the political speech and they are candidates and political problems have replaced neighborhood goesip and the latest fashion talk. And the end of the whole matter is, that the fair sex of Colorado and Denver are charged with imitating men in their political speech and voting to please men. And among women hore, as elsewhere, a doubt arises as to whether female Denvertes with the right to vote, "can really clean house in the arena."

Helen Louise Johnson writes, under the new name given above for domestic science, in a woman's magazine, a pertinent article on the evils that have resulted from the failure of women to learn or to be trained in the business of housekeeping. A quotation made by Miss Johnson says that: "The housekeeping of to-day, and especially the kitchen end of it, is at fault, because a woman, the head of the house, does not know her business. Women certainly take the control of domestic affairs in a majority of instances with-

WELCOME WORDS TO WOMEN

Women who suffer with disorders peculiar to their sex should write to Dr. Pierce and receive free the advice of a physician of over 40 years' experience—a skilled and successful specialist in the diseases of women. Every letter of this sort has the most careful consideration and is regarded as sacredly confidential. Many sensitively modest women write fully to Dr. Pierce what they would shrink from telling to their local physician. The local physician is pretty sure to say that he cannot do anything without "an examination." Dr. Pierce holds that these distasteful examinations are generally needless, and that no woman, except in rare cases, should submit to them.
